Gen. Almazan was caught between 5,000 cavalrymen in Escalon led by Gen. Marcelo Caraveo, Chihuahua governor, and more than 7,000 rebel infantrymen in Jimenez under Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, rebel supreme chief, it was said.

Mexico City, April 4 (A.P.) (10:20 p. m.).—Chapultepec Castle tonight made official announcement that more than 1,000 rebels were killed in action at La Reforma, Chihuahua, yesterday, 500 wounded and more than 2,000 were captured.

No estimate of federal casualties was given. The figures came from Gen. Calles at Torreon.

Naco, Sonora, April 4 (A.P.).—Two Mexican federal aviators were killed when their bombing plane was blown to bits in the air today under fire of machine gunners of the rebel ground forces besieging Naco.

Capt. Juan Guiterrez, 28, and Lieut. Jesus Gaona, 24, both rated high in the Mexican army air service, plunged from the sky in a flaming, splintered mass of wreckage when tracer bullets from a rebel gun below either pierced the gasoline tank or struck the single explosive charge which remained in their bomb rack.

Guiterrez and Gaona were on their their bomb rack.

Guiterrez and Gaona were on their fifth bombing flight over the rebel lines. On their first trips over Gen. Fausto Topete's troop train they carried two bombs. The last trip they left the federal airport with three 75-pound bombs. Two of them had been dropped before the crash, the third exploding in the plane which was 2 miles outside the federal trenches.

Federals Fly Too Low.

The aviators had instructions to fly not lower than 4,000 feet while in range not lower than 4,000 feet while in range of rebel machine runs. Their bombing operations appeared to have been so successful, however, that they dropped to the 2,000 foot level for a parting shot, federal officers here believe. The train already had been struck several times, reports here asserted and had started a hasty retreat toward Del Rio, the rebel concentration base 30 miles from Naco.

The federal plane had been struck four times by bullets in previous trips and federal officers said nothing but over enthusiasm in the pilots' efforts to

she was ostractized by the Hohenzollerns.
She defied them, and the couple were given refuge in Luxembourg, whose grand duchess is a relative of the princess.

The Hohenzoilerns predicted that no good would come of the union, and the princess, in fact, soon found herself in difficulties. Zoubkoff continued his pursuit of pleasure, and money went fast. Re-cently he announced that he was join-ing a French circus as a trick rider, but demanded, furthermore, that the princess cease giving "lavish entertainments" for the Russian friends of her husband, Alexander Zoubkoff.

The suit is the culmination of the troubles of the elderly princess since she married Zoubkoff, a pleasure-loving young Russian refugee half her age. The princess will be 63 years old a week from tomerrow. Zoubkoff is just past 30.

Pershing and Poincare Bring Tears to Eyes of Military Leaders at Embassy.

BODY ON WAY TO BREST

cratic simplicity that the late Ambassador Myron T. Herrick ever sought in his daily life, his body traveled westward tonight on its last journey ome aboard an ordinary baggage car Unprecedented honors from the French government and the French people marked its progress from the embassy to the church where funeral ervices were held today. The honor will be renewed at Brest tomorrow when the cruiser Tourville, finest new unit of the French navy, weight an-unit of the French navy, weighs anchor for New York with all that is mortal of one of the greatest friends of France aboard.

Never did a diplomat or foreigner of any walk or station of life draw from all classes of society such a unanimous manifestation of sorrow and sympathy
as has marked the passing of the Ambassador.

Ceremonies in his memory today were formal and official to the extent were formal and official to the extent of corresponding rigorously to the diplomatic protocol, yet scarcely ever before did such cold formality succeed in detaching itself so completely from pure state or political considerations to take on a real human, personal glow of sentiment. From heads of the government and army leaders to the common people, who lined the streets through which the funeral procession passed today, every individual showed that the death of the Ambassador was regarded as a personal bereavement as that the death of the Ambassador was regarded as a personal bereavement as well as a loss to France.

Attendance at the ceremony necessarily was limited to a chosen few hundred who could be accommodated in the American Embassy and the procethedral. Hundreds of thousands of persons showed their respect for the dead ambassador in other ways. All who could find a vantage point on the route followed by the cortege stood bareheaded in the sharp cold sir, those who could not do even that remembered the ambassador at the hour of his funeral.

Premier Poincare seemed to have felt strongly the influence that has aurrounded Ambassador Herrick's bier stace his deth. He rid himself of his habitual cold and formal eloquence and the sharp tone with which he usually speaks changed to a mellowness rivaling Gen. Pershing's and bringing tears to many eyes.

The name of Ambassador Herrick has been linked everywhere with that of Marshal Foch. For the French people they go down together in history. Ambassador Herrick's insistence on walking in the procession at the Foch funeral and on sitting in the stand throughout the ceremony at the Chapel of the Invalides is generally accepted as having hurried his end.

Age prevented Marshal Joffre and Marshal Lyautey from taking part in the funeral procession today. Marshal Joffre, however, made a point of going to the church and signing the register.

Marshal Petain, although suffering from a cold and cough, which he could not suppress during the ceremony, would not accept his doctor's orders to stay at home.

Following Battle

The service at the church was as simple as that at the embassy, and was even more impressive on account of the music. The absence of flowers, hangings and decorations was a surprise to the French people, who are accustomed to a more elaborate style of funeral, but they seemed to appreciate the depth of feeling which replaced the outward trappings of grief.

J. P. Morgan, who had expected to serve as one of the pallbearers, caught cold while away on an Easter holiday from sessions of the second Dawes committee and found it unwise to walk in the procession, which he joined at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Gilbert came from Berlin to attend the ceremony. Among others present were Jeremiah Smith, financial attache to the League of Nations; Thomas W. Lamont, former Ambassador Jusserand and Mme. Jusserand and the Marquis de Chambrun, one of Ambassador Herrick's most intimate French friends.

The body lay in the Episcopal Pro-Cathedral until sunset tonight, when in the presence of the family and representatives from the American Embassy it was placed in a hearse and taken to the Montparnasse station. There it was put aboard a baggage ar for transportation to Brest.

Fairchild, for whom a coroner's warrant was issued after a verdict finding the affidavit to which he had sworn that he had bought monshine at the De King home, was false, was located at his home here tonight.

Kane County deputies were reported to have been searching for Fairchild since Tuesday when a coroner's verdict was returned at Geneva Tuesday holding the killing of Mrs. De King was "unnecessary" and that Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, who fired the fatal shot, be held to the action of a grand jury on a manslaughter charge.

Fairchild, testifying at the inquest, admitted that he did not make the "buy" at the De King home, but that another man, Philip Johnson, had purchased the liquor upon which the evidence for a search warrant was isued.

Johnson testified he did not buy the liquor in the De King home and that he "did not remember" telling Fairchild that he had.

Fairchild became known as the "mystery investigator" when he disappeared following the shooting of Mrs. De King. He returned to Kane County to testify at the inquest, and following the verdict departed again. Deputy Smith, injured by a bullet fired by Gerald De King, 12 years old, son of the dead woman, was served with a warrant charging manslaughter at an Eigin hospital, where he is recovering from his wound.

"I am ready to return to Kane County and tell my story," Fairchild said. "If they are looking for me I don't know it. I was at my father's home here all day, fed the chickens and stayed around the home, but no officers have appeared.

McGrady Tells Own Story Of "Ride" From Strike Zone

Vice President of American Federation of Labor Declares He Was Abused and Threatened With Death if He Returned to Elizabethton.

The following story was written for the New York World News Service by Edward F. McGrady, organizer of the American Federation of Labor, who tells of his reported kidnaping early today from a hotel in Elizabethton, Tenn., to which city he had gone in greed that the wage increase would be the interests of textile workers there. By EDWARD F. M'GRADY.

Bristol, Tenn., April 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.). The Bemberg & Gladstoff textile fac-tory went on strike March 12. The workers got from $8.90 to $14 a week of 65 hours. No overtime was paid.

After a bitter strike a settlement was made increasing wages from 2 to 3 cents per hour, with no recognition of the union, but for more than a week after the workers returned the contract was not put in force. In the meantime, the company discharged about 300 members of the union. Great about 300 members of the union. Great unrest prevailed and the workers were threatening to go on strike at once.

William Green, president of the American Pederation of Labor, requested that I go to Elizabethton to calm the workers and to bring a message of peace and good will to the mill owners and business men of the town. I arrived there March 30.

I found everybody indignant that the agreement had not been carried out, including the business men. I urged patience on the part of the workers and spoke everywhere for peace. I was informed the chamber of commerce was hostile to the workers and to labor organizers. One of the union officers was brought into a room in the Lynwood Hotel and informed if I did not get out of town I would be given a ride.

Tuesday I walked in the Chamber of Commerce and talked with the secretary Mr. Harry Schultz, requesting per-

This was granted and I said to them. "I am here on an errand of peace and good will. I want to help the town and the industry, as well as the workers. In Washington, before the Congress, there is a tariff bill pending asking for increased duties on textiles to help the industry and protect the American worker, but we will never be able to show that the workers are being able to show that the workers are being protected when they now have a duty of 75 per cent on textiles and the workers in Elizabethton are working 56 hours a week for $8.90, and hundreds of nen thrown out of the

He said that one automobile, a coupe loaded with men, followed him almost to Asheville and when they left him, fired a number of shots.

Hoffman told the Associated Press that he was in a hotel at Elizabethton when a number of men came in and called for him. He said they led him out of the hotel, forced him at the points of pistols to enter a strange automobile and then drove him out of the city.

He said the leaders of the crowd got his baggage from the hotel, forcibly took his automobile keys from his pocket and drove his car along. There were six cars loaded with men in the party of kidnapers, he said, and when they reached a point some distance from Elizabethton, the procession stopped, he was put in his own car and warned to leave the vicinity and remain away.

He asserted that the leaders of the crowd took all of his personal papers and refused to return them, adding that he could identify at least twenty of the party.

(Associated Press.) Word from Ottawa that the Canadian government had decided to make the sinking of the Canadian rum runner I'm Alone the subject of formal repre-sentation to the American Government was interpreted by unofficial and diplo-matic circles here last night as a move on the part of the Canadians to bring the antirum smuggling treaty of 1924 up for formal discussion. The treaty was made between the United States and Great Britain and

United States and Great Britain and is binding on Canada. A number of divergent views are held by officials of the two governments on just what points the treaty covers, and it has been known for some time that both the British and Canadian governments, in connection with previous rum-running incidents, have been auxious to discuss the divergent points with discuss the divergent points with

No Representations Here. State Department officials last night

State Department officials last night said that so far the formal representations have not been received by the department. The Canadian Legation said that the only move it has made in the case was the inquiry several days ago by the Canadian Minister, Vincent Massey, for information regarding the incident.

There has been an inclination in the last few days in some quarters in Washington to believe that the Canadians might drop the case, hence no move in the way of an apology or steps to straighten out the tangle were made by the American authorities. It is generally believed that the Canadians are more interested in the principles of the case with regard to the treaty than they are with the actual sinking.

The 1924 treaty, while giving certain reciprocal rights to Great Britain for cooperation against rum smugglers, is believed by the Canadians to have been of little reciprocal value to them.

Three Probable Points. The unofficial Canadian view is that he case will be predicated on three soints. These are: Whether the pursuit of a suspected vessel can be carried outside the one-hour limit of the treaty.

The nature of the pursuit, namely, whether the fact that the I'm Alone was sunk by another vessel than that which began the pursuit constitutes "continuous and hot pursuit."
Whether the offense of the I'm Alone justified the violent action of sinking her when she refused to sur-render to the Coast Guard.

It is apparent that the Canadians in making their representations it that the reports which they received from the British Consul in New Orleans and the preliminary reports of the American Government were sufficient for their case, as it is known that all reports have not yet been received by I am going back to Elizabethton. the State Department, and consequent-tome what may. KIDNAPING OF 2 STRIKE CHIEFS

INMAN PAID DIVORCE COSTS, SAYS SPOUSE

Footed Bills for Her First Suit. Wife Testifies in Reno Action.

MOTHER OPPOSED MATCH

Reno, Nev., April 4 (A.P.).-Walker Inman was so eager to marry the wife he now seeks to divorce that he paid for her divorce from another man back in 1919, the jury was told in the Inman trial in district court here to-meeting in New York while she was the wife of Grant Clarke, a theatrical man, whom she married in Kokomo, Ind., in 1914, at the age of 17.

The witness said that at the time she was separated from Clarke. Inman offered to finance her divorce so he could marry her, but she refused, she testified. Later, she said, she learned that Inman, through her sister, Mrs. Irving. Schloss, of New York, had paid the costs of her divorce from Clarke.

She obtained her final decree in September, 1919, and married Inman at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., the following April. The match was opposed by Inman's mother, Mrs. James B. Duke, widow of the tobacco magnate, Mrs. Inman said, and for that reason there was a quiet marriage at Poughkeepsie to avoid publicity.

and for that reason there was a quiet marriage at Poughkeepsie to avoid publicity.

"Walker told me that his mother objected because of lack of wealth and social position in our family," Mrs. Inman, the daughter of a Kokomo, Ind., clergymen, testified. She said Mrs. Duke wanted her son to marry some socially prominent woman with wealth to match his.

The first marital rift developed in 1921, according to Mrs. Inman, when Madge Brazell came to the Inman apartment intoxicated and asked her to come to the Brazell spartment and "get Walker out." Inman, it seems, had been there all night, drinking. Asked about her acquaintance with John Steele, vaudeville singer, named by her husband as a corespondent, Mrs. Inman said ask was introduced to him by a niece of Charles Caldwell, New York attorney for Inman. She told of Inman insisting that she go out with his men friends, naming several of these, including "Bill" Grant, who, she said, was a cousin of Inman.

HOOVER OIL POLICY DEFENDED BY BORAH

(Associated Press.)

Against persistent protests from the West to the order of President Hoover withholding public lands from oil operations, Senator Borah (Republican), of Idaho, spoke out yesterday in defense of the Hoover conservation policy as "nothing less than ordinary registers."

Answering a protest from the Idaho Palis Chamber of Commerce, Senator Borah declared in a letter to its president. Charles J. Carlson, that he did not want, "for any advantage which we might gain at this particular time, to discourage on to oppose a program which may result in great benefit to the pople as a whole."

The senator expressed fear of a world o'll trust, resulting from concessions gained in the Russian fields, and added that "it is not to be presumed that of the New Jersey leaders, even if Edge

The New Jersey leaders, even if Edge does get the post.

One line of reasoning in political circles here is that Mr. Hoover would like to send Edge to Paris in order that Representative Pranklin W. Fort could

Referring to the concessions in the Russian oil fields, Senator Borah, an advocate of Soviet recognition, stated that Charles Evans Hughes, as Secretary of State, "warned all men to stay away from these people—so these companies have bravely gone in and taken the risk and secured such concessions as will enable them to lay a solid foundation for a world monopoly in oil."

"I am in sympathy with the President's effort to conserve our oil," the senator wrote. "It seems to me the order which he has made is the first step in that direction. It is true that it will retard the development of our oil fields in the West, but we can make no better investment as a State than to keep these oil deposits for future development. They will increase in value as rapidly as anything the State could possess.

Incidentally, or maybe significantly, if Larsen does not have this appointment or withholds making it until after October 4, the appointee may serve unmolested through the next regular session of the Senate. He must run for election next year just as Edge must do if he does not go to Paris.

If he should resign and his successor on the senate of the senate of the same of the senate of the same of the senate of the same.

But in view of the policy which has obtained, citizens who have gone forward in good faith under the old policy to discover and develop oil ought to be dealt with liberally and in good faith. While it is within the province of the Government to change its policy, that change ought not to be put into effect under such circumstances and conditions as will cause those who had gone forward in good faith to lose their investments. "The Federal Reserve System has been aware of the consequences, present and prospective, of high money rates to the country's business and has pursued a policy formulated with a view to correcting the situation that was causing these high rates."

Recalls Former Warning.

It recalled its February 7 warmin which it pointed out that "owing the unusual absorption of credit the security market, money rates business were increasing at a time the year when money conditions unusually easy."

"The system's desire," the board continued, "to see money rates at a lower general level has been due in part to its realization of the bad effects of continued high money rates on domestic business, and in part to its unwillingness to draw gold from aboard, with consequent advances in money rates in other countries, some of which are suffering from industrial depression.

"The objective of Federal Reserve policy, therefore, both from the point of view of domestic business and of world trade conditions, is a readjustment in the credit situation with a view to assuring trade and industry of a continuous supply of bank credit at reasonable rates."

"Demand for funds to finance the trading in securities in the New York market has continued large," the board states, "but the only increase in brokers' loans has been in loans by lenders other than banks."

hand and Mitchell on the other. Members of Congress have been drawn into the controversy on both sides.

Mitchell Rebuke Seen.

The board's statement was regarded as a rebuke to Mitchell, though there was no mention of him nor of his support of the market.

Other than raising rediscount rates the board may take other steps, which include:

Issuance of Government securities. There are only between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 securities available, however, and this would avail little.

Further tightening upon the $888 Federal Reserve member banks in the country.

Of its recent policy the board said:

These loans have been from surpluses of corporations.

"These loans have been from surpluses of corporations.

"These loans have been from surpluses of corporations.

"This class of loans," the board safor weeks ending March 27, while street leans by banks, including both New York and other banks, declined by nearly $300,000,000.

"The liquidation of brokers' loans by banks since the board's statement of Pebruary 7 indicates an effort by banks to comply with the desire of the board to restrain the diversion of bank credit into speculative channels. This liquidation has been accompanied by a further rise in money rates, which has attracted funds from corporations and individuals in this country and abroad."

HOOVER'S SOUTHERN REFORM.

President Hoover's demand for a reform of Republican political conditions in the South deserves the approval of every good citizen in the South and elsewhere. Conditions there have long been a scandal, and if the Republican party is to build up a strong organization in those parts it will be necessary to heed the demand of the President for a general housecleaning in certain States, and especially in Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina.

No one who should more heartily approve of the President's demand for reform in Southern Republican politics than the colored voter. Nobody has fared worse at the hands of Republican bosses in that section of the land than he. He might indeed be chosen as a delegate to a county, a State, or even a national convention of his party, but his party boss did not consider him when the rich, juicy plums of office were to be handed out. For all practical purposes he was left out in the

The Southern Republican managers in the past have been more concerned to keep their organizations intact than to win Southern elections, and until last autumn a Republican victory in the South was not to be imagined. The Republican machine was maintained in every Southern State, but the Republican party itself was a joke. It is to the interests of the colored voters in the South, as well as the white voters, that this condition be changed.

Mr. Hoover has started the Republican party in South Carolina, Georgia and Mississippi to traveling on the right road and everybody who believes in decency in politics must hope that a general political housecleaning in that section will follow.

SOURCES OF WEALTH.

Joseph S. McCoy, Government actuary, who recently completed a study of 118,000 of resident descendants and 12,000 of nonresident descendants, which paid a total inheritance tax of $860,000,000 and $12,000,000, respectively, to the Government between the years 1916 and 1927, discovered that in 1927 the average percentage of the total in the form of real estate was a trifle over 18 per cent. The smaller the estate, the greater the proportion so held. Gross estates amounting to less than $50,000 held some 39 per cent in the form of real estate. This percentage continued to decrease until, with estates of $10,000,000 and over, there was but 1 per cent of real estate. Holdings of corporate securities followed a reverse rule. The maller the estate the smaller the investment in stocks. Estates of less than $50,000 held but 11 per cent in corporate securities, whereas those of over $10,000,000 held 65 per

The figures afford an interesting commen tary on the investment habits of well-to-do Americans. They apparently testify to the fact that great fortunes today are made in industry. They do not prove in any way whatsoever that corporate securities are to be preferred as investments over real estate, for there is no way of telling from what source came the basic fund upon which the fortune was built, but they seem to indicate the great change that has come over the United States since 1900, or thereabouts.

Today, the United States is an industrial nation. Fortunes still are to be made in real estate, in commerce, in the professions and in the other usual ways, but industry today is the great wealth producer, as is proved by Mr. McCoy's analysis of tax returns.

AMERICANS HELPING CHINA.

China has called on another American exert to assist in the economic rehabilitation of that war-infested country. John J. Mantell, sulting railroad engineer, has been engaged by the Nationalist government to survey the Chinese rail system with a view to restora-tion of the depleted roads and the introduction of American methods of operation. The new government has called repeatedly for the advice of American experts in restorng the country from the ravages of 15 years of civil war. Dr. Edward Walter Kammerer, dessor of economics at Princeton University, with a large staff is undertaking a reform of Chinese currency. Henry Killam Murphy, merican architect, has been engaged to plan the modernization of Nanking, the Nationalist apital, and Ernest Payson Goodrich, seapor ingineer, to direct the construction of a harbor for ocean liners at Canton.

Development of China's transportation sysm is one of the most urgent needs of that ulous land. During the past few years its fireads have been operated under direction if the war lords, and are now so dilapidated at they are of little service. But if all its filroads were in good condition, China would ave only approximately 7,500 miles of rails

ple. The United States, with less than onethird as many people, has a railroad mileage 35 times the length of the Chinese system. Where this country has one automobile for every five persons, China has but one for every 21,000 inhabitants.

If modern transportation and communication systems could be developed the Nationalist government would have a much better chance of maintaining its authority over the entire Chinese Republic. No doubt the government is seeking to strengthen its position by rehabilitation and extension of the railways. But since the Chinese are dependent on foreign capital for this improvement, the Nationalists will first have to demonstrate their ability to control the country. Millions of dollars furnished by foreigners for rail projects have been lost because the railways have fallen into the hands of contending military leaders. No more money will be available until a stable government has been established. The progress of civilization in China is clearly dependent upon the success of the Nationalist administration.

FOREIGNERS HOLD AMERICAN TRADE. The report of the United States Shipping

Board, giving details as to how the foreign commerce of this country was handled in 1928, again calls attention to the problem of an expanding trade without an adequate merchant marine Exports from this country are growing faster than those of any other nation, yet foreign vessels continue to carry 61 per cent of all American overseas com-

The total foreign trade for the year was 100,000,000 long tons valued at $8,000,000,-000. The freight bill paid to shipowners on this commerce amounted to $750,000,000. Instead of being paid principally to American shippers, almost two-thirds of this amount went to shippers flying foreign flags. Only 30 per cent of these exports and imports was carried by foreign ships engaged in direct trade. The remainder, of equal amount, was handled by foreign ships which do not visit the countries whose flag they fly, but make a business of carrying the trade of the United States to other foreign countries. Nothing could more forcefully indicate the need of a greater fleet of American merchant ships

Americans jealously guard and protect their industries at home, but intrust their international commerce to the ships of 28 different

The Shipping Board's report is not pessimistic, however, since it records an increase from 9 per cent of American trade handled by American ships in the period from 1910 to 1914, to more than one-third at present, as the result of the establishment of American shipping services in world trade routes which did not exist prior to the World War. It is significant that the board found a direct relationship between America's expanding trade and the development of shipping service. Prior to 1914 there were five American vessels participating in South American commerce. Now there are 90 vessels on these routes, and trade with South America has increased nearly 200 per cent. The increase from 1 to 140 American vessels operating between Pacific Coast ports and the Far East represents a trade expansion of 380 per cent. Nineteen ships operating between the United States and Africa, where there were none before 1914, have brought a trade increase of 325 per cent. The Shipping Board is justified in concluding that "the establishment of services in these trade areas has been a American foreign trade."

Continued prosperity in this country will be aided by further development of foreign trade. This development depends largely on the expansion of American shipping. Since only 21/2 per cent of the ocean-going vessels built in the last seven years can be credited to the United States, the necessity of greater encouragement of American shipping projects is obvious. The Shipping Board has accomplished a good deal in restoring this country to its proper place on the seas, but with 61 per cent of American commerce still in the hands of foreign carriers the work must be regarded as only a beginning.

BOLL WEEVIL PREDICTIONS.

Dr. George D. Smith, entomologist, predicts the greatest boll weevil damage this year since that of the period between 1921 and 1923. Five factors, he says, govern weevil damage—fall breeding conditions, date of killing frosts in the fall, minimum winter temperatures, nature of emergence weather during the spring months, and the amount of summer rainfall. Conditions last fall and this winter, in his opinion, were such as to influence a bumper survival and growth of

The Department of Agriculture, on the other hand, having cast its figures in the annual boll weevil survival investigation, asserts that conditions this summer will be better than last. In northern Louisiana the percentage of weevil survival dropped from 5.5 to 1.8: in southern Louisiana from 100 to 39; in Georgia, from 40.3 to 17.7, and in Alabama, from 30.5 to 19.6. In South Carolina alone the percentage of survival increased, the ratio being 1.3 to 9.2 per cent.

It remains to be seen which prediction will hold true. The prosperity of a vast region depends largely upon the control of this pest. If the weevil should become unusually active this season the effect of his appetite will exert profound influence on the state of Southern industry and commerce.

NEW JERSEY STUDIES TAXES.

New Jersey has undertaken to solve its problems of taxation by the scientific method. Following the recommendations of Gov. Larson, the senate has adopted a resolution authorizing a survey of the county and municipal tax systems by a commission of experts. The governor intends to call a conference in which the matter will be discussed with representatives of the municipalities, and indications are that a comprehensive scheme for overhauling the machinery of taxation will be worked out.

This plan recognizes that no one adjustment of the statutes can effect an equitable distribution of taxes. A number of similar investigations have been made in other States, with generally good results.

The States are confronted with constantly increasing taxes, and investigations are usually and coal so little?

undertaken in the hope of reducing them. This is not always possible, and the work of a commission should not be considered a failure if it does not result in lower levies. When a governmental unit is confronted with steadily increasing expenditures and greater demands for public service, it is difficult to reduce its revenues. The real service that can be performed by expert tax commissions is equalization of the tax burden so that one group of people will not be contributing an exorbitant share. If this can be accomplished in New Jersey, no doubt a number of other States will be led to authorize expert investigations of their tax

DISTRICT GASOLINE TAX.

Representative Zihlman, chairman of the House District committee, has announced that he will seek an increase in the District gasoline tax to create a fund for improvement of park lands in Washington. His bill would raise the gasoline tax from 2 to 3 cents per gallon, and provide that one-sixth of the total be devoted to park development. He hopes to get the measure on the calendar of the House at the extra session in order to sound out public opinion.

It is quite likely that the announcement of his plans will be sufficient to call forth an expression of public opinion. The people of the District will never willingly submit to a higher gasoline tax for further development of parks. Washington already has more park space than any other American city. The only justification for development of more park land is that this city is the National Capital: and there is a strong feeling that further improvements of this kind should be financed from the Federal Treasury. At any rate there is no justification for increasing the gasoline tax for this purpose.

The gasoline tax is now in effect in every State, and during 1928 it brought a revenue of $304,419,000, practically all of which was spent on highway and street projects. It has gained popularity as a means of levying a portion of the cost of highway construction and maintenance on those who use the roads. Expenditure of funds raised in this manner for other than highway and street purposes is a perversion of the principle underlying the tax. It is of foremost importance that Congress recognize this fact.

More than half of the $2,940,600 spent by the highways division of the District government in 1928 was raised by the 2-cent gasoline tax. This tax should be reserved for highway and street development. If Congress should see fit to make a 3-cent levy, the additional fund should be devoted to improvement of roads rather than parks.

HOW ABOUT SAVING COAL?

From the Mining Congress Journal

The problem of overproduction is the great problem of both the coal and the oil industries. The product of both industries is essential to our industrial prosperity. As between the two, coal is altogether more important. The apparent difference between the two is built upon the theory that our oil resources are limited while our coal reserves are sufficient to meet our industrial requirements for so long a time that we perhaps need not worry about that future time.

But the theory of limited and insufficient oil reserves does not rest on a very secure foundation. The recent report of the Federal Oil Conservation Board points out incl dentally that our knowledge of oil resources is very limited and that in 50 other countries which at present produce no oil or gas the belief is held that commercial pools will yet be discovered. In our developed fields but a small percentage of the total oil content is being recovered. Present improvements in operating methods give promise that a very much larger part of the total oil content of our oil-bearing sands will be recovered in the future, that oil fields which have been practically abandoned with more than 75 per cent of their original oil content still remaining will yet yield a larger amount of oil than has been produced. But upon the theory that a shortage is likely within the not remote future the industries of the country have little to fear because of an oil shortage except the higher price which is necessary to justify the manufacture of oil substitutes from coal and oil shale. As a means of stabilizing the production of oil to meet industrial requirements the present withdrawal policy of oil lands from development, will slightly influence the total production, but the burden will fall on a few Western States.

It may not be amiss to point out that while the most important oil product-gasolineis now retailing for practically double the selling price in 1913, that the price of coal is now approximately the same as in 1913. The competition between coal operators is much more flerce than the competition between oil producers, partly because of the fact that oil conservation is receiving the active assistance and cooperation of the Government which is an aid not given to coal, and partly because of the very much greater number of units engaged in coal production. While it is true that different oil fields require continued operation in order to give to each owner his proper share of oil and to guard against dangers from water infiltration and otherwiseit is also true that a coal mine must have continued operation to avoid losses of equal importance to the individual operator.

The coal industry needs conservation in its various aspects much more than the oil industry. It is stated that more than 40 per cent of the coal reserves are left in the ground where they become so mixed with waste matter as to make their future recovery impossible. The coal industry needs conservation of labor employed in its operation to the end that the men engaged in the industry may have more continuous employment. The coal industry needs conservation of the amount of capital (all of which is taxed by State governments) employed in the industry.

While it would be a very great inconvenience to the country if its gasoline supply should be limited, yet the country would move on and its earning power would not be greatly diminished. But should the supply of coal be cut off, the industrial life of the Nation would almost cease. Surely, the national interest in coal is equal to that in oil. Why is it that oil receives so much consideration

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"Tired of Drunkenness" To the Editor of The Post-Sir: So much of the discussion of prohibition has assumed an academic trend that we are liable at times to lose sight of the purpose of the amendment and the enforcement statutes. This purpose is stated in the opening words of an article by Prof. T. N. Carver-"Decent people everywhere are tired of drunkenness." This is a good reply to the statements of Senator Cole Blease as published in your paper this morning.

The senator says he voted for the Jones law because he thought it the best way to end prohibition. Prof. Carver has stated, "When a plan (to eliminate drunkenness), advocated by people who are above suspicion, is shown to be superior to prohibition, it will not be dificult to get rid of prohibition."

A great statesman, Edmund Burke did not hesitate to place his own views above the views of the people he represented, although his action cost him a seat in Parliament.

Opium Prohibition.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: rould be gratifying to know why the United States suddenly ceased to require its tot of opium in the year 1923, after it had been accustomed to such vast quantities in previous years. The drop from 61,271 kilograms to 5,-120 kilograms is some drop! Was this due to a great moral effort on the part of addicts? And why, if opium consumers succeeded in doing without their allowance in one year, did they ever fall away from grace sufficiently to need 64,602 kilograms in 1927? Perhaps Ellen La Motte knows.

Opium is far more dangerous to the nation than alcohol. We know that it is a costly business preventing the public from drinking what they have been accustomed to drink since history began. It should be easier to save them from a newly acquired sin. How much is spent by the Government to keep its citizens free of the more deleterious effects of opiates? Or does the American eagle bury its head in the sand of prosperity and believe it has done its whole duty? STEPHEN HAWEIS.

Spring in Washington.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir Lilacs in bloom in Washington on the last day of March may have been seen before, but florists have no recollection of such an early appearance of the bloom, and so far as recorded there is only one lilac bush covered with blossoms in the National Capital today. That floral freak is shedding its glory on the east side of Fourteenth street in the grounds of the Agricultural Department, right along the roadway traversed by so many thousands of the Easter visitors.

These girls, and there are estimated to be more than 20,000 of them here this week, expected to see the magnolias and the Japanese cherries in bloom. They were not surprised to place of George Washington, and only find daffodils and forsythia in the a few miles across the country from the parks and gardens, but lilacs were a birthplaces of James Madison and of State. In my wee village of 1,000 people I'll wager there are ten men who should pay income tax and don't. They escape because they make no report and nobody reports them. Ten men in a population of 1,000, and this section is relatively poor.

If evaders are equally numerous throughout America, and I suspect hey are, the annual income that escapes taxation is not far short of five billion.

WARDMAN PARK HOTEL DINNER DANCE Saturday Evening, April 6th

at 7:30 P. M. Featuring Another All-Famous M. C. A. Orchestra, the

... to regain our place on the seas won by our clipper ships a century ago..."

CTUATED by a desire to promote the American flag on the high seas, the United States Shipping Board, by unanimous vote, has sold the United States Lines and American Merchant Lines to P.W. Chapman & Co. With the sailing of the Leviathan from New York on April 10, the first ship will be taken over by the new organization, known as the United States Lines, Inc. We are thus turning over to private ownership eleven splendid vessels -the result of a persistent effort on the part of our Board to "take the Government out of the shipping business" on a basis that will make for the permanency of the American Merchant Marine.

The ships and the services will continue as before. The Leviathan, known the world over as the largest liner afloat, will sail as before in the regular New York-Cherbourg-Southampton service; the famous American-flag cabin ships, George Washington, America, Republic, President Harding, and President Roosevelt will continue to carry discerning passengers between New York and Ireland, England, France, and Germany. The American Banker, American Farmer, American Merchant, American Shipper, and American Trader will be available as heretofore to everyone wishing to sail or ship freight from New York direct to London.

American travelers will continue to be served by the same ships' officers and crews, and an experienced organization ashore which will uphold the best traditions of the American Merchant Marine. Our Board stands ready at all times to cooperate with and assist the new owners whenever we can.

The United States Lines, Inc., will lay the keels for two super-Leviathans. Before long, additional ships will be under construction. Within a few years one of the largest and finest fleets in the world will be sailing back and forth across the Atlantic, flying the American flag.

Entrusted as we are with the future of the American Merchant Marine, we are keenly conscious of our great responsibility to every citizen of the United States. We have seen a greater number of Americans traveling every year; we realize that we must have ships that are fast-ships that are in keeping with our American standards of luxury and service at home—ships that offer a passage abroad to suit every purse. The new owners are determined to build such ships, and we call upon the American nation to see that we regain our place on the seas won by our clipper ships a century ago.

You are cordially invited to visit our new, spacious and beautifully equipped showroom during "Housewarming Week"

Magnificent New Showroom, necessitated by the enormous expansion of our business. These new quarters are without question the finest in which oil burners have been displayed in the South. They are in keeping with the high character of our product.

Our former quarters at 1214 New York Avenue served our purpose admirably during the first period of our growth. But now that "Silent" is Washington's most popular oil burner—now that "Silent" is far outselling all other makes of oil burners—now that the local demand for this outstanding oil burner is growing more rapidly than ever before—immediate expansion has become vitally neces-

So we have secured a much larger and much finer habitation. A whole building at 1218-1220 New York Avenue has been taken over for our use. It will give us the largest, the most magnificent, and the most completely equipped oil burner showroom in the South.

That is why we have April 5th to April 13th for celebration. We are calling it "Silent" Housewarming Week. And we invite all Washington home-owners to attend.

Here will be seen special demonstrations of "Silents" installed and operating in various types of heating plants exactly as they would be in your own home. BUY A SILENT

During April 5th to 13th
And Save

$50.00

Take advantage of this extraordinary saving we offer in celebrating our third anniversary and housewarming week. If you are thinking of buying a burner and enjoying its many advantages, it will pay you to visit us during Housewarming any day or evening between April 5th to 13th, inclusive.

You probably know how popular the "Silent" is. How hundreds and hundreds of "Silent" burners are already installed in Washington and vicinity! How "Silent's" sales right now are far greater than all other makes of oil hunners.

Now learn why! Learn why it is the silent oil burner. Why it is dependable. Why it is efficient and economical. And why its one size will efficiently heat any room from a fiveroom cottage to a mansion!

Leave for the office or business with the care-free assurance that there will be no tending fires for your wife and family—no weak wrists strained, no tender bodies overtaxed—no furnace cares at all. A grateful and wholesome warmth is maintained consistently, regardless of outdoor temperatures. Dangerous drafts are eliminated. Every room provides clean, safe and cozy surroundings for the aged and the little ones alike.

When you've learned all these amazing facts... when you've learned how such an outstanding oil burner can be sold at such an extremely attractive price... when you've learned the various payment plans from which you can choose—you will order a Silent Automatic, and enjoy the comforts and conveniences that the "Silent" provides.

liner Berengaria, received an average of only $400 a year as a smuggler—and then got caught.

Appearing as a Government witness against John T. McIntyre, waterfront traffic policeman, on trial as the gobetween for shippers abroad and domestic consignees of smuggled gems, Ballyn said he brought through "about eight" packages of diamonds and for each received $100 over a period of two years before he was arrested and removed from the post of steward.

Ballyn is one of several members of the so-called smuggling ring who have appeared against the former policeman. McIntyre pleaded not guilty after Ballyn and three others had pleaded guilty.

On the witness stand Ballyn said he had turned over the gems to McIntyre after bringing them from abroad, where he had received them from a man known to him as King, but who was identified in court as Barend Groothuis, alleged European diamond buyer, and a man named Steel, whose photograph Ballyn identified as that of Sidney Landau, son of Morris Landau, New York jeweler.

An operatic program has been chosen by Ludwig Laurier and his orchestra for the hour of Slumber Music tra for the hour of Slumber Music which they will broadcast at 11 o'clock. The complete program follows:
Ballet music from "Fausto" Gounod; selection from "La Travista," Verdi; dances from "The Bartered Bride," Smetana; selection from "Lohengrin," Wagner; and "Bridal Song" from "Queen of Sheba," Goldmark.

The first and second movements of Maydn's "Surprise Symphony" will be heard at 11:30 o'clock this morning during the RCA education hour. The "surprise" happens in the second movement, when the full orchestra and tympani mark with crashing ohords the sections of the theme. The symphony was first produced in London in 1792.

The U. S. Marine Band, led by Capt. Taylor Branson, will play a concert at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Wildors' romance, "Conte d'Avril" and "Pastorale" by Godard give a seasonal tone to the classical concert to be broadcast by the Pacific Little Symphony Orchestra at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The orchestra is directed by Max Dolin, while Jennings Pierce is the announcer for the broadcast.

Marthin Provensen, barytone, and George F. Ross, pianist, members of the staf of Station WRC, will be heard in a joint recital at 6:30 o'clock.

The Luther Trio will again be heard during the Kodak Hour at 10 o'clock tonight from WMAL. This trio, made up of Frank Luther, Jack Parker and Phil Dewey, has selected a novelty by Shilkret, a medley of hits from "Good News." "Animal Crackers" and a medley of Stephen Poster songs. The trio will be assisted in their harmonizing by Nat Shilkret and his orchestra, who will themselves contribute the "Waltz-From Vienna," Rubinstein's "Romance" and Grainger's "Country Garden."

A program of "rain" songs, entitled "April Showers" will be broadcast as a special seasonal feature from WMAL at 8 o'clock. The high spot of this program will be the rendition of "A Garden" a brand-new song of gram will be the rendition of "A Garden in the Rain," a brand-new song of two English composers. Carroll Gibbons wrote the music and James Dyrenforth the lyrics for this melody. Other tunes will include "Rain," "Look for the Silver Lining," "Rain or Shine," "Let a Smile Be Your Umbrella," and "If You Want the Rainbow," Other features scheduled during the evening include "Veedol Hour" and the Paramount and Everglades Orchestras.

Station WOL will present the Castillians Dance Orchestra at 6:30 o'clock, followed by Rev. Ephrium in a group of spirituals, accompanied by Henry T. Booker, fr., 12-year-eld pianist.

Two hours of dance music will be provided by WOL, beginning at 10 o'clock.

David Martin, barytone, will be presented by WJSV at 8:30 o'clock, followed by Jimmle Tester, the Tarheel Troubadour. The Gondollers and Bill Thompson's Fiddlers will conclude the evening broadcast.

The National Farm News program will be presented at 12:30 o'clock today, followed by a current events discussion and the Farm Forum. A program of musical selections will keep the station on the air until about 2 o'clock today.

JUST FOLKS By EDGAR A. GUEST-

One lost a child! Unreconciled
Throughout the years goes she,
And wonders why Her boy should die
And all her grief should be.

One kept her child! Unreconciled
Throughout the years goes she,
No joy he gives.
But still he lives
A constant shame to be.

One mourns a child! To him her tears she gives. By shame and scorn, Mourns for the lost that lives! (Copyright, 1929.)

Alaska Like Heaven for Radio Fans

Many Widely Separated Stations Heard, Rome and Peru, Even New Zealand-Lack of Interference Given as Reason.

Judging from a letter written by Mrs. Inez E. Moore, of the Alaska Native School, to F. C. Crews, of 316 Seventeenth street southeast, Shungnak Alaska, on top of the world, where the school is located, must be a heaven for radio fans.

"It seems strange to every one that we are able to hear so many stations and so widely separated, but our location has much to do with that, also the lack of interference. It is like placing us at the peak of a triangle, and then radio, like so many strings or ribbons stretching out in all directions with none so vastly farther away than others," Mrs. Moore writes. "Germany is very little further from us than Southern California, for they come to us across the pole. Programs put on in Germany on Tuesday night reach us Monday morning, due to the international date line. Auckland, New Zealand, is our most distant station, which comes to us regularly in the

Iguassa Falis are a great break in the flow of the Aito Parana River. This river runs between Brazil and Argentina, and is in the midst of the wild life of the tropics. The shores are lined with bamboo and tree-ferns. Alligators swim about where they can find quiet water, and go to the banks to sun themselves. Birds of many colors filt among the trees, and here you will find that big-billed fellow known as the "toucan."

Iguassa Falis may be divided into two main parts—the Brazil and the Argentine falls. At their highest point, theyeare 210 feet high, which is 43 feet more than the greatest fall of Niagara. In the dry season the Iguassa river continues to flow but it becomes shallow enough for islands to appear at the brink of the falls.

When the original bid is three of a Major or three or four of a Minor, the partner jumps with one probable trick; and in none of these cases does the jumper have to consider the holding of normal support in his partner's suit as essential to justify the jump. The original bidder, by his high suitbid, has shown that he does not need length in his partner's hand in the suit he is naming. Normal support is any three cards of the suit or two, when one of them is either of the

When deciding whether to raise of jump partner's suit-bid of one or two there are two essentials, neither owhich can be dispensed with safely. The first is normal support in partner's suit; the second, the requisite count as shown in the schedule of values for suit jumps.

SOME OILS REACTIONARY

New York, April 4 (A.P.)—With convincing evidence that the credit crisis incident to the turn of the quarter is definitely past, operations for the advance were resumed on the stock market today, rather cautiously, but along a broad front. Soores of issues, in which steels and rails were prominent, were bid up 2 to nearly 12 points.

Call money renewed at 10 per cent, but dropped to 8 soon after midother and the month-end shifting of balance ownerly interest and dividend checks had been cleared at the banks, and the month-end shifting of balances odmpleted. Funds came into the market in considerable volume, and acling of loans was negligible.

A year ago, 6 per cent dall money would have been regarded as a considerable obstacle to bullish operations, but after the experience of the past two months 6 per cent money seems cheap. The last time the rate went that low was on March 19. It touched the 6 per cent level on only three days in March and 5 in February.

Time Money at 9 Per Cent,

The easier call money conditions appeared to be an ephemeral development, however, as time money commanded a flat 9 per cent for all maturities, a rate unsurpassed for the longer maturities even during the chaotic days of early 1920. Bankers still could see no prospect of any substantial improvement in credit.

The Federal Reserve Bank made no change in its rediscount rate of 5 per cent, and Secretary Mellon stated that The Federal Reserve Bank made no change in its rediscount rate of 5 per cent, and Secretary Mellon stated that the spring meeting of the twelve Federal Reserve governors and the Reserve Board in Washington was merely resulting.

The possibility of a favorable decision in the St. Louis and O'Fallon case at the reconvening of the Supreme Court was talked of in connection with the upturn in the rails. New York Central, New Haven, Southern, St. Louis Southern, Union Pacific, Erie, C. & O., and Pittaburgh and West Virginia were among those rising from 3 to 5 points. Motors also moved forward, as more reports of capacity for the first quarter, and better reports as to orders, were heard. General Motors and Chrysler gained about 3 points each. DEALINGS IN BONDS CONTINUE TO SHRINK

Most Government Issues Move Upward: Time Money 9 Per Cent.

FOREIGN LIST IS DULL

New York, April 4 (A.P.) .- Trading in the bond market contracted further today as time money commanded 9 per cent for all maturities. Price changes. except in a few scattered utilities and specialties, were insignificant.

In the 9 per cent rate for time money the highest charge in years—traders see little hopes for easier money conditions, with a resulting wave of activity in the bond market, for some months to come. The large excess of merchandising exports over imports, without offsetting foreign financing, also is having an adverse effect on the market. except Liberty 31/s and fourth 44/s, worked higher, but the volume of sales was one of the smallest of the year.

Commercial Investment Trust 51/s again were the weak feature of the so-called speculative group, and slumped 2 points to a record low at 951/s, but rallied a point at the close. Today's drop carried them nearly 10 points under the syndicate price.

Alleghany Corporation 5s on a turnover of $568,000 were firm at yesterday's closing level, while American International 51/s were off a fraction.

Atchison convertible 41/s fluctuating over nearly a 2-point price range, closed with a net gain of a point, reflecting strength in the railroad stocks St. Paul adjustment 5s lost ground, but New Haven convertible 6s, ran up 2 points. except Liberty 31/2s and fourth 41/4s,

New Haven convertible os, ran up points.

In the irregular utilities, American Natural Gas 6%s dropped more than a points to a new low for the year in the face of improved earnings for 1928. Public Service of New Jersey 4%s broke a points. International Telephone convertibles again resumed the lead in the advancing issues, chalking up a point fair.

Bonds called for redemption this month are the highest of any month of this year. The total of $98,717,400 compares with $79,886,260 in March and $198,890,530 a year ago. Consplicated Gas of Baltimore is retiring $10,265,000 6 per cent bonds, and John Waramaker Shiladdalphia is naving off $10,000,000 Philadelphia is paying off $10,000,000 with the proceeds from a 5½ per

Curb Review

New York, April 4 (A.P.) - Public participation in the curb market showed a marked reduction in volume today, due to the desire of many traders to await developments at the Federal Reserve meetings before extending their commitments. Prices showed some irregularity on the early trading, but railied toward the close on the reduction in call money rates from 10 to 6 per cent and official assurances that no action bearing on the financial situation would result from the meeting of Federal Reserve Board governors.

Oils, which were freely sold yester-day by speculators who were disap-pointed at the failure of the American pointed at the failure of the American Petroleum Institute to receive official approval for its proposed Nation-wide curtailment program, showed signs of recovery today on buying attracted by the prospect of favorable earnings this year. Humble and Imperial each moved up about 2 points, and Vacuum and Gulf closed a point higher.

A spectacular advance of more than 11 points in Sikorsky, based on reports of large current orders, was the only development of consequence in the aviation group. Aviation Corporation of America and United Aircraft lost ground.

Ford of Canada soared 29 points to 1.148 and there was a good demand for Ford of England stock, large lots of which have been taken out of the market by small investors. Auburn Auto advanced 3 points on a few sales.
American Stores dropped 3 points and National Family Stores 1. The decline represents a scarcity of bids rather than any pressure to sell, as trading was small in that group.
Public utility stocks moved within rather narrow and irregular limits. Chesebrough Manufacturing soared hearly 10 points to a new high above 160 and Cohn Hall crossed 45 to a new peak. New stocks of the Wright Aeronautical and International Telephone Companies were in brisk demand at rising prices.

Efforts are being made by several brokers to eliminate "penny stocks" from the tape on the ground that the cost of handling these transactions is often greater than the commissions received.

H OUSTON, Tex., April 1.—Second State of Tupelo Flash," can the Giants this year. If Andy Reese, the "Tupelo Flash," can stand up with Terry, Jackson and Lindstrom in the infield and play smooth game around the so-called keystone sack, the Giants will win the National League pennant. Anyhow, that's the way they feel about it now with their hardest fight coming from the Cubs and the Pirates.

Almost the Naked Truth

Prove Less Formidable.

The Cardinals, the Giants and the Cubs figured in a desperat battle down the stretch last season. The New York players now claim that they lost the flag and the right to meet the Yankees in the world's series because of the fielding weakness of "Lefty" O'Doul in left field and the collapse of Andy Cohen, the Jewish, boy, at second base.

Reese will start the new season as the Giants' regular second baseman. While home runs are almost as easily to hit as in the Baker Bowl in Philadelphia. He should hit quite a few Ruthian drives into the right field stand. Als addition to the Giants gives the Polo Ground tribe more power to their al-ready powerful batting punch. Reese will start the new season as the Giants' regular second baseman. While he is fast and a good bitter, he is far from a finished second baseman and is not sure on double-plays. Then, too, he has a habit of running past a ground ball. These defects the other Giants hope he will overcome this year, and if he does, the New York Club will have about the best infield in the country. 20 Games by McGraw. far better condition than it was at this time last year and will be disappointed if his team does not get away to a running start in the pennant race. Leach Fills Left Field Vacancy, Adding to Team's Punch. The hole in left field has been eliminated by the addition of Fred Leach, late of the Phillies. Leach is a far better outfielder than O'Doul, both on the offense and defense, and will prove his worth with the Giants this year. Playing with the Phillies is a handicap to any ball player. Now that Leach has a chance to play on a winning ball club and probably cut in on a world's series melon, he should have his greatest season since he came up to the big show with the Phillies.

Nike McNally, who was carried by the Yankees for several years as utility outfielder and playmate for Babe Ruth and who is now manager of the Binghampton Club, expects great things of a new third baseman this season. The newcomer is none other than Pete Latzo, former world's welterweight champion, who learned to play baseball along with McNally on the sandlots in the Pennsylvania coal mining region. Latzo, who then rated in the first flight of light-heavyweights, suffered a rude interruption of his ring career last November, when Jimmy years.

Paul Waner Signs With Pirates

Held Out for $18,000; Dons Uniform Today

Paul Waner, the "big poison" of the Pittsburgh Pirates, today ended his holdout by signing a contract with Barney Dreyfuss, president of the club, after brief dickering here. Whether the star outfielder, who had demanded $18,000 for this season's work, won out in his salary argument was not disclosed. Neither Waner nor Dreyfuss would discuss the terms of the contract.

Earlier in the training season, Drey-fuse had flatly rejected the $18,000 fig-ure, countering with an offer said to be $7,000 under what Waner thought pitching staff is much stronger than it was at the start of last year's race, for Carl Hubbell, the lanky Oklahoma lad, did not join the Giants until late in the ought to receive. It was believed the two compromised today. Paul said after the conference that he was well satisfied with the contract and expected to have another "big season."

He came here from Oklahofina City, saying that he would return here tomorrow to don a uniform for the first time this spring. His presence in Fort Worth today did not become generally known until a short time before the announcement was made that he had come to an agreement.

Lloyd Waner joined the Pirates on the Pacific Coast several weeks ago after a holdout act that had a shorter run than that of his brother. "Little Poison" is understood to have signed up for $10,000 this year.

Morgan Beats Zorilla

When the Franch Davis Cup Team successfully defended the trophy against the Americans last summer it looked as if the emblem of tennis supremacy was destined to repose in Paris indefinitely. What has been observers adoubt if he will again be a factor in international competition. Henri Cochet, the French and American singles champion, who rose to great heights in the Davis Cup series, has no intention of retiring, apparently, but there are indications that he is slipping. His play in recent tournaments has been very disappointing. In the final at Blarritz Wednesday he was easily defeated by Plerre Landry in straight sets. It was the first time Bandry, ranking No. 7 in France ever had taken a set from Henri, although they have clashed many times. John Scalzi was the chief mourner when the game was definitely called off, as in the first inning he had achieved the ambition of all ball players—knocked a home run with the bases loaded. Fillies played an important part with two of the races exclusively for the gentle sex while Spectre, who carired the silks of Earl Sande to his first score of the year, is another filly.

The best field of the afternoon went the post in the Midway, a mile and issueenth condition affair that ught out half a dozen rather nice a. This saw Jefferson Livingston's much campaigner, Le Bey, under caple handling by George Fields, any winner over R. L. Freeman's Coral, with Mrs. A. L. Austin's Sunnyat saving third from C. E. Martin's

the Rose Shows Smart

seder the Rose Shows Smart seed in Beating Juveniles.

John Cliver Keene showed what looks a smart filly when he sent Under a Rose, a home-bred miss by Sand sle—Yellow Blossom, to the post in effect that she had an inside post sition kept many from wagering on . Legere had the mount, and when a start finally came, after a delay of the minutes, Sylvia Méde, quick to gin, dashed to the front, and in the around the far turn drew away into commanding lead. Under the Rose d second.

ring the home stretch Legers t the Keene filly down on the and, closing in resolute fashion, she caught and passed Sylvia Mede in the last sixteenth to win going away at the end by 3 lengths. Harry Payne Whitney's Murky Cloud was third, beaten a head for the place. Murky Cloud broke in a jam and was inter-fered with again before she got settled in her stride. She was fairly flying at the finish, overhauling the leaders at every stride. The winner ran the half mile in 473-5, a real good race for a rasiden effort.

Sande's Spectre Gallops to Lasy Victory in Second.

Earle Sande furnished the winner of the second race, a claiming affair at 5½ furlongs, when his black filly Spectre galloped home to an easy victory. Ridden by E. Benham and making all of her own pace. Spectre had a margin of 2 lengths to spare at the finish. It was a mighty tight fit between the next four. The Seagram Stable's Kai Shetjust managed to last long enough to beat Sambo G. a nose for the place. Miss Paradise was fourth, beaten a neck for third money.

Miss Paradise was fourth, beaten a neck for third money.

Spectre showed keen speed and set a repid pace from the start. At no part of the trip was she in trouble, Benham rating her under slight restraint to the stretch turn, where she drew away. Ksi Shek went to the post a well-played favorite. He broke slowly and raced on the outside until well around the far turn. He was within a length of the leader just before entering the home stretch, but from there to the anish hung and was under terrific punishment at the end.

Lieutenant II Ninned by stenant II Nipped by otiom in Stretch.

Eleutenant II started out like a win-ter in the third race. Taking the lead t the start, he set a fast pace and led its opposition until making the turn the home stretch, where Hypno-ism caught and passed him. In the tresch run the latter held command of the situation, and at the finish won by the situation, and at the finish won by the situation, and at the finish won by a scant length from the tiring Lieutenant II. The latter was under a drive to stall off Fair Anita, who came again under punishment, and was only beaten a head for the place.

Bocaratone as usual broke slowly and beaten with a rush on the outside. This recer is one of those sort that runs well mough to make you bet the next time of the principal sufferers. It looks as if there is always interference at the source where the temporary rope fences repeated the chutes from the track the course where the temporary rope fences repeated the chutes from the track the course where the temporary rope fences repeated the chutes from the track the course where the temporary rope fences repeated the chutes from the track the course of the principal sufferers appear a bit timid and invariably take out to prevent their mounts from swerving into the rope. My Six Catches Ready in Last centh of Fourth.

The Samuel Ross Stable started what his supposed to be a good thing in leady in the running of the National meater Players Purse, and, like Cloudy, he best that Ready could do was to mish second. Ready had no excuses to fier. Breaking on top and saving round all the way, Ready made the ace until the last sixteenth, where My is caught and passed her and at the nd won going away by three parts of a magth. The 5½ furlongs were run in 65.5. Ready set a rapid pace. She and to the quarter in 23.1-5 and the hif mile in 47. Ready had trained all and shown some good trials at mileo.

Alice Makes a Bold Move.

In Chapter 6 Old King Brady rounds up Mag Prividi and places ner under arrest. Alice tries to find little Mabel's hiding place. She tracks Tony down and is engaged as a nurse for the child, who is locked up in the old tannery.

A PTER reading the love-letters which Alice had translated to Old King Brady, he suspected the child might be in Mag's care, and Mrs. Crispino had assured him such was the aid of the policeman on the beat, Old King Brady opened the door with his lakeleton keys.

Old King Brady led the way to my lady's chamber. The door was locked, but the detective kicked it in. A piercing scream followed. A badly frightened woman was sitting up in bed. Evidently she was an Italian.

"You are Mag Prividi," said the old detective. "We want the little girl, Mabel Ray."

"She is not here. You can search all you please and you won't find her." She was right. They searched the house and found no one but a badly frightened old woman servant.

Meanwhile Mag Prividi had dressed herself. "Am I arrested?" she asked as Old King Brady reappeared.

"Yes. You will have to go to the station. You might have avoided this if we had found the child."

"Listen, I'll tell you the truth, boss. The girl was here tonight, but some men took her away. I don't know where they have gone."

"There is only one way by which you can escape arrest," Old King Brady said, "and that is to tell me all you know."

"She was brought here by a friend of

"Milan," replied Alice.
"Have you been long in this country?"
"Two years. I have been in Chicago only a few weeks and I wish I had never Jeft New York. Help me, Signor, if you can."
She did so at considerable length. One of the pair was evidently the man who had attacked Mrs. Crispino.
"This woman must be locked up, officer," said the old detective. "We shall want her as a witness."
Miss Prividi protested vigorously, but she was taken to the station, while Old King Brady returned to the hotel.
He knocked on Alice's door, and received no response.
"Perhaps she caught on to this second kidnaping," he said to himself. "She may have found a chance to follow them up, but I can't understand what has happened to Harry."
He was right about Alice. During the entire day and evening she had shadowed Mag Prividi's house. This time she came in a cab which she kept in waiting for a time. She felt it possible that the child might be taken elsewhere on account of the expected interview with "Governor Strong." This was one of her happy thoughts.

"What is the matter? Have you lost them?" she asked.
"No, indeed," was the reply. "They slowed down and the man with the bundle got out. I saw him enter this old building."

"You did just right," said Alice. She paid the man and he drove away. Alice advanced and tried the door. It was locked. Peering in the window, Alice saw that the place was vacant. Walking on to the end of the building, she saw the street was blockeded by a great mass of brick, which partly filled a vacant lot and had fallen over what was now the wreck of a small frame house. Danger lanterns were hung about the ruins and two men were on guard. It was the scene of the explosion, of Alice turned back. Just as she passed the office door a voice behind her said in Italian. "Wha" we need is some woman to look after her."

She stopped and turned. The door stood ajar. Alice stood listening.

will you get—Blanca?"

"No. She has other business. I wouldn't trust her, either; she might get away with the ch''d."

"Well, I'll go back and do the best I can. Perhaps you will be able to pick up somebody."

Alice made up her mind to get the job for herself.

As Tony Pitato came out of the office his saw her leaning against the wall with her head hanging down and her face covered with her hand.

Alice was disguised as an Italian and he addressed her in that language. "What is the matter?"

"Oh, sir, I am in such trouble!" Alice replied. "I have been turned out of my room and I have no place to go."

"Look up," s'id Pitato. "Let me see your face. "I want a woman to work for me, and maybe you'll suit."

Alice looked him straight in the eye. "Will he know me?" she asked herself. What part of Italy did you come from?" he asked as he looked her over searchingly.

Former President Becomes Chairman of Merchants Bank & Trust Co.

STOCK PRICES ARE QUIET

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT. After serving seven years as the head of the Merchants Bank & Trust Co. of of the Merchants Bank & Trust Co. of this city, which he organized in 1922. Peter A. Drury, sr., yesterday turned the presidency of his institution over to Rolfe E. Bolling, first vice president. Mr. Drury, on relinquishing his former post, immediately became chairman of the board of directors.

Other changes announced at the bank in connection with Mr. Drury's retirement were the elevation of Frank P. Harman ir, formerly second vice presidents.

ment were the elevation of Frank P.
Harman, Jr., formerly second vice president and secretary, to the office of first vice president and the appointment of Joseph A. Rafferty as trust officer.

Although Mr. Drury has been in poor health several months, it was only resently that he made known his intendion of retiring as the active head of his bank. He plans a long period of relaxation, and in the near future will eave Washington on an extended trip through Europe.

we washington on an extended trip rough Europe. Mr. Drury, who has been a resident the District since 1885, was born in secommon, Ireland. For years after ming here he was interested in the Rescommon, Ireland. For years after coming here he was interested in the Abner-Drury Brewing Co., and in 1904 he organized the old Merchants & Mechanics Bank of Washington, serving as its president until 1906. He then brought into being the old National City Bank, whose president he was until 1916, when he organized and was made president of the Merchants Bank. Their had taken over the affairs of the Washington & Southern Bank. The fatter became the Merchants Bank. The fatter became the Merchants Bank & Trust Co. in 1922.

Mr. Bolling, who succeeds to the presidency, has been connected with the bank five years, coming here from New York, where he was associated with the Chatham Phenix National Bank. A brother of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, he is a member of the widely known Virginia family of Bollings.

He has been in the banking business virtually all of his life. Beginning his career in Abingdon, Va., he subsequently was associated with banks in Baltimore and Panama before entering the New York banking field.

Mr. Rafferty, who becomes trust officer, is also a member of the board of directors. He succeeds to the office held for many years by the late B. Ashby Leavell, who was stricken several weeks ago while instructing a class in the Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking.

In announcing his resignation, Mr. Drury yesterday paid high tribute to the character and ability of his successor.

CAPITALIZATION

200,000 shs.

ORGANIZATION AND PURPOSE: Second Southern Bankers Securities Corporation is being organized under the laws of Delaware to operate along the general lines of an Investment Trust, affording individuals opportunity to participate, through expert supervision, in diversified investments and underwritings which might not be available to them as individuals.

This Trust will have the same officers and directors as the Southern Bankers Securities Corporation, who will pass upon all securities purchased for the Corporation. The directors will receive no compensation for their services as such, other than through their ownership of capital stock in the Corporation which they have purchased at $50 per share, and each Director will receive a three-year warrant entitling him to purchase 1500 shares of capital stock of the Corporation

The Corporation will, upon full payment of the temporary certificates, receive from the proceeds of the sale of its stock $1,500,000 in cash, arising from the sale of 30,000 shares of its capital stock; and as the underwriters will pay all organization expenses, including the issue and distribution of this stock, this sum will be net to the Corporation. The Board of Directors is composed of:

C. PREVOST BOYCE Member of Firm of Stein Bros. & Boyce, Baltimore, Md.

Capital Stock (no par value)_

HEYWARD E. BOYCE

President Drovers & Mechanics National Bank, Baltimore, Md. W. GRAHAM BOYCE

CLARENCE K. BOWIE Member of Law Firm of Bowie & Burke, Baltimore, Md. JAMES BRUCE Vice-President National Park Bank, New York City. J. EDWARD JOHNSTON Member of Firm of Stein Bros. & Boyce, Baltimore, Md.

W. O. PEIRSON Vice-President Union Trust Co. of Maryland, Baltimore, Md. JULIAN S. STEIN Member of Firm of Stein Bros. & Boyce, Baltimore, Md. · MILTON S. TROST President Block, Fetter & Trost, Inc. Louisville, Ky.

Each member of the Board of Directors has had long and successful investment experience, and therefore these men are able to give highly specialized consideration in the selection of the Corporation's commitments.

MANAGEMENT CONTRACT: The Southern Bankers Securities Corporation has purchased a substantial amount of the Capital Stock in the Second Southern Bankers Securities Corporation at $50 per share, and has entered into a Management Contract with this Trust under the terms of which Southern Bankers Securities Corporation will receive no compensation unless the annual net realized profits of this Corporation (as defined in such contract) exceed 8% on its stated capital (as defined in such contract). In any fiscal year in which the net realized profits exceed this 8%, Southern Bankers Securities Corporation will be entitled to receive as a management compensation for such year an amount equal to 20% of the net profits, but only to the extent that the payment thereof will not reduce the net profits below this $%. The requirement for the annual earning of net profits of 8% shall be cumulative so that if, in any year, the Corporation shall fail to have net earnings of that amount, the deficiency must be made good in subsequent years before the Southern Bankers Securities Corporation will be entitled to receive any compensation.

EARNINGS OF SOUTHERN BANKERS SECURITIES CORPORATION: The earnings of the Southern Bankers

Securities Corporation, on its average invested capital, compares very favorably with other American Investment Trusts, as shown by its recent statement. The Corporation has been able to earn an average well in excess of 12% on the average capital invested since its original incorporation, and Common Stock of the Southern Bankers Securities Corporation which was first offered less than two years ago at $7.50 per share is now selling at about $55 per share on the Baltimore Stock Exchange, approximately 71 times the original offering price.

INVESTMENT RESTRICTIONS: The Board of Directors shall not approve any securities for investments that will conflict with the following restrictions:

- 1. Not more than 10% of the resources of the Corporation may be invested at any one time in any one enterprise or in the securities of any one corporation.
- 2. Not more than 20% of the resources of the Corporation may be invested in the securities of any one country

Application will be made to list this stock on the Baltimore and Louisville Stock Exchanges.

This offering is made subject to allotment or prior sale and in all respects when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to approval of Messrs. Bowie & Burke, Counsel. Payment for Stock will be as follows: 25% on delivery, subsequent calls to be made at intervals of not less than two months upon 15 days' notice, and no single call to be made for more than 30% of the purchase price. Payment in full may be made in advance, and 6% interest will be allowed on such anticipated excess payments. Temporary Certificates for part paid stock will be delivered on or about April 15, 1929.

AIRPORT HERE HELD NATIONAL DEFENSE NEED

Lieut, Walter Hinton, Post Radio Speaker, Cites War Problem.

PRESENT FACILITIES CALLED DEPLORABLE

Hoover, in Talk With Bingham, Evinces Interest in Capital Project.

A municipal airport in Washington a necessity from the standpoint of national defense, Lieut. Walter Hinton, former crack pilot of the Navy, deover WRC radio station last night. In time of war, Hinton said, the airport here could be converted into a base for the planes assigned to defend the National Capital.

The present facilities for military planes here were described as deplorable by the former Navy filer, who pointed out that at present combat planes are unable to take off from Bolling Field after a heavy rain.

Lieut. Hinton, now president and director of the Aviation Institute, was the third speaker on the airport program sponsored by The Washington Post, the National Broadcasting Co., the Board of Trade and the Merchants and Manufacturers Association. The purpose of the series of talks is to point out the heed of a municipal airport here. the airport here could be converted ctr here.

The speakers tonight will be John lays Hammond, noted mining engineer and world citizen, and W. W. Evert, president of the Board of Trade. Lammond will start speaking over VRC at 7 o'clock, and Everett at 7:15. Hammond Takes Lead.

Hammond is one of the most color il figures in American life today. A uth he prospected for gold in Call-ia. After he had been graduated the Sheffield Scientific School at and had studied at the Royal sol of Mines at Frieburg, Saxony, School of Mines at Frieburg, Saxony, he began a series of prospecting adventures that took him to all parts of the globe. In South Africa, he came close to being hanged by the Boers. Many years later President Taft appointed him special ambassador to the coronation of King George V of England. At one time, he refused to run for the Republican nomination for

When Col. Charles A. Lindbergh came back after his epic flight to Parls, Mr. Hammond was named chairmen of the sception committee. There had been alk of a municipal airport for Washigton before that, but Lindbergh's reurn gave the project the impetus that as carried it to its present state. In scent years, Mr. Hammond has taken deep interest in aviation.

Under President Everett, the Washigh was not recommended to the washighten and the second state.

Senator Bingham, of Connecticut hairman of the congressional commitse that is to recommend airport legistion for Washington, called on Presilation for Washington, called on President Hoover yesterday and was surprised to learn that the Executive was extremely familiar with the problem. In the course of their talk, Bingham said, Hoover evinced deep interest in the airport movement. Bingham's committee will start hearings Monday morning.

norming.

Discussing the need of a Washington airport last night, Lieut. Hinton said:

"It is neither fitting nor necessary that I predict the use to which aircraft should be put during the next war in which we are involved.

Aircraft Held Vital. "Much has been said on the subject and it is very obvious to any one that alreraft will be of the greatest im-aircraft will be of the greatest importance.

The present airport facilities of Washington could not possibly handle war-time traffic of military planes, to say nothing of the requirements as an air base for the defense of the Capital City. The defense of our Capital is now dependent upon the weather; if it rains and our present fields are muddy we might just as well not have an air defense, because, 10 to 1, our combat planes could neither take the air in defense of the city nor land if they had defended it.

"Therefore, a modern local airport not only become an economic necessity but a part of our national defense."

Hinton predicted that aviation will entirely change the business and social life of America. They day is not far distant, he said, when the general use of airplanes will create country residences, just as the automobile created our suburbs.
